Swiss Made in the catering industry: Ensemble commits to Switzerland as a manufacturing hub

Opfikon-Glattbrugg, 18.08.2026 – The members of Ensemble, the association of independent Swiss manufacturers of catering equipment, are making a conscious commitment to Switzerland as a manufacturing hub. Through domestic development, production and investment, they are making a significant contribution to safeguarding specialist knowledge, jobs and industrial value creation.

Swiss Made means responsibility

The 'Swiss Made' label is recognised worldwide as a symbol of quality, precision and reliability. For the members of Ensemble, however, it means far more than simply a proof of origin. Manufacturing in Switzerland enables short decision-making processes, high quality standards and a close link between development, production and customers.

«Those who manufacture in Switzerland invest not only in machinery, but also in people, training and innovation. As Ensemble, we are committed to fulfilling this responsibility», says Christophe Paris, President of Ensemble.

In the professional catering sector in particular, durability, operational reliability and dependable service are crucial factors. Swiss manufacturers therefore continuously invest in research and development, modern production facilities and the training of qualified specialists.

Value creation that extends far beyond production

For Ensemble, a strong industrial sector is a key pillar of Switzerland as a business location. Manufacturing companies not only create direct jobs, but also support regional suppliers, service providers and training organisations. The decision to base production in Switzerland is therefore also an investment in knowledge, training and long-term competitiveness.

Swiss production with international success

Among those embodying this commitment are Ensemble members Brunner-Anliker Maschinen AG and Valentine Fabrique SA. Both companies develop and manufacture their solutions in Switzerland and enjoy international success. Together, they employ around 64 staff in Switzerland and continuously invest in their sites, technologies and skilled workforce.

The proximity of development, production and the market creates the quality and innovative strength for which Swiss catering technology is valued worldwide.

Working together for a strong future

Ensemble is convinced that Switzerland will continue to benefit from a strong industrial base in the future. Innovation arises where ideas are developed, tested and produced. That is why the association is committed to strengthening Switzerland as a manufacturing hub and promoting high-quality Swiss kitchen technology.

About Ensemble

Ensemble is an association of independent Swiss manufacturers of professional kitchen equipment. Through collaboration and knowledge-sharing, Ensemble supports its members in the national and international markets and helps to establish Switzerland as a leading centre for high-quality kitchen equipment.
